2.i	The processor listed for the HP 6300 All-in-one units is listed as a Pentium based processor and not an i3. It is also slated to go end of life within a few months. Is this the correct processor to be used? If another i3 processor is to be used will we be able to confirm proper functionality with your image?	The i3 Processor is listed as the required processor in the specification of the RFQ. It has been confirmed with HP that this product has not been slated for EOL in a few months.
